TitleMax of Texas, Inc. d/b/a TitleMax

In this Credit Services Disclosure Statement (this “Disclosure Statement”), I, me, my, we, us, our, and Consumer refer to the individual consumer who signs this Disclosure Statement. You, your, yours, and CSO mean TitleMax of Texas, Inc. d/b/a TitleMax, whose principal business address is 2312 E Trinity Mills Rd, Suite 100, Attn: Legal; Carrollton, TX 75006, Legal@ccfi.com. The third-party lender from whom Consumer may get a loan (Lender) is:

NCP Finance Limited Partnership
205 Sugar Camp Circle
Dayton, OH 45409-1970

About CSO: CSO is a credit services organization registered with the Texas Secretary of State and a credit access business licensed and examined by the State of Texas Office of Consumer Credit Commissioner. Call the Consumer Credit Hotline or write for credit information or assistance with credit problems: Office of Consumer Credit Commissioner, 2601 N. Lamar Blvd., Austin, Texas 78705, (800) 538-1579, www.occ.texas.gov, consumer.complaints@occ.texas.gov. CSO’s agent in Texas authorized to receive service of process is Corporation Service Company d/b/a CSC-Lawyers Incorporating Service Company, 211 E. 7th Street, Suite 620, Austin, TX 78701-3136. Credit services organizations are not lenders and do not make loans. CSO helps consumers obtain loans from a third-party lender including by issues a credit enhancement to the third-party lender to back up Consumer’s promise to pay the loan.

This Disclosure Statement is being provided before Consumer enters into any credit services transaction or loan or pays any fee or other consideration to any party. If CSO and Consumer enter into a transaction, this Disclosure Statement will be incorporated by reference in the separate Credit Services Contract and Security Agreement (the “CSO Contract”) into which CSO and Consumer will enter.

Description of CSO Services: CSO is not a lender. CSO’s credit services (collectively, the “CSO Services”) involve arranging a loan between and Lender with an annual interest rate not to exceed 9.95% (the “Loan”) and an Annual Percentage Rate as indicated in in the Lender Loan Agreement, which includes amounts paid to CSO. This includes (a) helping Consumer complete the paperwork (including the credit application) needed to get the loan from Lender; and (b) providing to Lender in respect of the Loan from Lender a guaranty or other credit enhancement satisfactory to Lender that backs Consumer’s repayment of the Loan (with any such letter of credit, guaranty, or other credit enhancement being referred to as the “Credit Enhancement”). To get the Loan from Lender, Consumer must enter into a separate Loan Agreement, Promissory Note and Security Agreement (the “Note”) with Lender. As a condition to getting CSO Services from CSO and the Note from Lender, Consumer must grant to CSO and to Lender a lien on Consumer’s unencumbered motor vehicle. The CSO Services that CSO provides to Consumer are complete on the date on which Consumer signs a Note with Lender.

Fee for CSO Services: CSO will charge Consumer a fee for providing CSO’s services (the “CSO Fee”). The CSO Fee is based upon a percentage of the Amount Financed, calculated as shown in the CSO Fee Schedule set forth below. The actual amount of the CSO Fee that CSO will charge Consumer will be set forth in the CSO Contract and also will be disclosed in the Note. The CSO Fee is fully earned by CSO on the date of the Note that CSO helps Consumer get from Lender. The CSO Fee is due and payable to CSO as provided in the CSO Contract. Consumer will not owe the CSO Fee to CSO if (a) the Lender denies Consumer’s credit application, (b) Consumer does not take a loan from Lender, or (c) Consumer cancels the CSO Contract as described therein. The CSO Fee I agree to pay to CSO, though required to be treated as finance charge for purposes of federal disclosures, is for a separate service from the third-party lender’s services and is not interest under Texas law. My payment and other obligations to CSO are separate and distinct from my obligations to Lender. The CSO Fee I pay to CSO is not a loan payment owed to Lender. Lender receives no portion of the CSO Fee.

Fee and Interest Schedules: CSO’s fee schedule and Lender’s interest and fee schedule are as follows:

Lender Interest and Fee Schedule

- Loan Terms: Lender makes loans secured by liens on unencumbered motor vehicle titles and a CSO Credit Enhancement, with terms not to exceed 180 days and an Amount Financed from $100.00 to $25,100.00.

If Consumer defaults, then CSO will be able to enforce the Note's terms against Consumer and be entitled to every remedy provided to a successor in the Note, including the rights to collect amounts that may accrue following default. CSO's right as a provider of a credit enhancement shall be in addition to, and not in substitution for, any other rights CSO may have, whether in law or equity or otherwise such as our rights as a holder, successor, an assignee, or otherwise.

The surety bond is also in favor of the State of Texas for the benefit of such damaged person. A person making a claim against the surety bond for a violation of Chapter 393 may file suit against the surety identified below, the CSO that violated Chapter 393, or both. The surety is liable only for actual damages, reasonable attorney's fees and court costs awarded under Texas Finance Code § 393.503(a). A Summary of My Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Following is a summary of my major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or write to: Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street N.W., Washington, DC 20552. Para información en español, visite www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore o escribe a la Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street N.W., Washington, DC 20552.

- I must be told if information in my file has been used against me. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny my application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against me – must tell me, and must give me the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- I have the right to know what is in my file. I may request and obtain all the information about me in the files of a consumer reporting agency (my "file disclosure"). I will be required to provide proper identification, which may include my Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. I am entitled to a free file disclosure if:
 - a person has taken adverse action against me because of information in my credit report;
 - I am the victim of identity theft and place a fraud alert in my file;
 - my file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
 - I am on public assistance;
 - I am unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

I am entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for additional information.

- I have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of my creditworthiness based on information from credit bureaus. I may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but I will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, I will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- I have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If I identify information in my file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless my dispute is frivolous. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for an explanation of dispute procedures.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to my file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about me only to people with a valid need -- usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.
- I must give my consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about me to my employer, or a potential employer, without my written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.
- I may limit "prescreened" offers of credit and insurance I get based on information in my credit report. Unsolicited "prescreened" offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number I can call if I choose to remove my name and address from the lists these offers are based on. I may opt out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-5-OPTOUT (1-888-567-8688).
- The following FCRA right applies with respect to nationwide consumer reporting agencies:

CONSUMERS HAVE THE RIGHT TO OBTAIN A SECURITY FREEZE

I have a right to place a “security freeze” on my credit report, which will prohibit a consumer reporting agency from releasing information in my credit report without my express authorization. The security freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in my name without my consent. However, I should be aware that using a security freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in my credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application I make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit.

As an alternative to a security freeze, I have the right to place an initial or extended fraud alert on my credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If I am a victim of identity theft, I am entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting 7 years. A security freeze does not apply to a person or entity, or its affiliates, or collection agencies acting on behalf of the person or entity, with which I have an existing account that requests information in my credit report for the purposes of reviewing or collecting the account. Reviewing the account includes activities related to account maintenance, monitoring, credit line increases, and account upgrades and enhancements.

- I may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, I may be able to sue in state or federal court.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, I may have more rights under state law. For more information, I may contact my state or local consumer protection agency or my state Attorney General. For information about my federal rights, I may contact:
